Engineering Comfort Series Durability Analysis Under 120Kg Load

This sofa has been tested using computer-aided engineering analyses, based on a user weight of 120 kg per seat to accurately represent real-life usage conditions. The loads have been evenly distributed across the seat and backrest areas in accordance with human sitting ergonomics, ensuring that both structural safety and comfort are evaluated together.

The analysis results indicate that structural stability is maintained in the sofa's load-bearing frame, while controlled and comfortable flexibility is provided during use. Brando Home completes aesthetic design not only through visual appeal, but also through engineering reliability.

Test load: 120 kg user (per seat)
Loading type: Ergonomically distributed static loading
Result: Safe structure - controlled flexibility - long-lasting use

The product was tested using computer-aided electrical analyses based on a weight of 120 kg.

The Warmth of Wood The Elegance of Design.

Quality in details defines the standards of your living space. Combining the strong stance of the solid wood base with the softness of carefully selected textured fabrics, this design is a candidate to be the leading role in a modern and sophisticated living room. It promises both appealing aesthetics and enduring comfort for years.
